

ss for the nation's number one winter warmer

NICE ONE JEN

xy Scouser cools down for Crimbo

THERE'S just no question that luscious babe Jennifer Ellison really is a Christmas cracker...

There might still be 12 days to go but the blonde beauty is already looking festively fab.

And what red-blooded fella could resist coming over all seasonal after a glimpse of these stunning pics.

Yep, the lovely Liverpool lass makes one sizzling snow queen in these exclusive winter wonderland shots.

Jen, who has just finished a much-acclaimed run in hit West End musical Chicago, is hoping to wind down soon so she can get stuck in to some festive fun 'n' frolics.

But last night she was due to attend the New York premiere of her first Hollywood film, Phantom Of The Opera.

And it's believed the 21-year-old babe has been offered a starring role in a Big Apple production of Chicago.

It's been a busy year for her. She made her movie debut in the big screen version of the Andrew Lloyd Webber musical Phantom.

And she stole the show at the London premiere last week when she dazzled in a curve-clinging £20,000 crystal encrusted dress.

But before that the Scouse sex-pot cooked up a storm to win ITV1's hit show Hell's Kitchen.

Achieving new-found cooking skills under the watchful eye of superchef Gordon Ramsay, she now plans to put these to good use this Crimbo.

Letting us in on her plans for a yuletide feast for 20 people, Jen confides: "On Christmas Day all my family are coming and I'm doing the full works for them. On Boxing Day it's my Tony's family's turn - they're going to get a feast, too."

Giggling she added: "I don't know what I'm letting myself in for!"

But we're sure it will all go very nicely for the newly converted domestic goddess, who's keen to impress fiancé Tony Richardson, 26, as she is desperate to tie the knot in a lavish ceremony next year.

"I can't wait to marry Tony and have a family," she continues. "He keeps my feet on the ground and he's my soul-mate."

Not that former Brookside star, who plays Meg Giry in the big budget Phantom, is planning on putting her ever-more successful career on ice just yet a while. In fact she's set on fulfilling her dreams in Tinseltown.

"I've only done one film but I'd love to follow in the footsteps of Catherine Zeta Jones," beams the ex-soap siren. "I really admire and respect her and the hard work she's done."

"Next year is the time to focus on what I want to do. I don't want to be a pop star now - I want to concentrate on acting."

MIKE WARD WHAT'S HOT TO WATCH

EVER thought of pretending you've won the lottery? Of course not, because you aren't a total wassock. Sadly, this is more than can be said for the character Martin Kemp plays in tonight's ITV1 drama Can't Buy Me Love (9pm). A painter and decorator with bog-all money-sense, he tries to win back his estranged wife (Michelle Collins) by allowing her to believe he's won nearly nine million squid. "I need to know this isn't just another of your lies," she replies, cautiously. But that's exactly what it is, of course, and by the time he's decided he should come clean, things are way beyond his control. It's a classic soap-style tale of greed, desperation, deceit, lousy communication and a guy with the IQ of a satsuma, so you won't be surprised to hear it's written by one of EastEnders' top script people, Tony Jordan. Elsewhere, in What Ron Said (BBC1, 10.35pm) ex-ITV footie pundit Big Wrong Atkinson tries to get his head around the racism issue, and understand why he caused such outrage this year with his abusive remarks about ex-Chelsea star Marcel Desailly.

...on last night's telly

HOLLYWOOD has a lot to answer for. There I was, sitting and watching SEVEN WONDERS OF ANCIENT EGYPT (Saturday, Five), the first programme in Five's Egypt week.

Yet, as one marvel after another appeared on the small screen, all I could think was, 'That doesn't half look like an out-take from The Mummy.'

And it did, too, with all those shaven-headed men dressed in loincloths, labouring away in the service of the pharaoh. How nice that Five, for once, is running something half decent.

And it contained one absolute gem: namely, that one of the most successful pharaohs ever, Hatshepsut, was a woman. She actually led armies into war, conquered parts of Africa and built one of the biggest temples in Egypt, which we were occasionally able to admire when the graphics stopped and a bit of photography was allowed in.

Tribute

And what happened after her death? Her male successors, horrified at the thought that a woman had been the most powerful Egyptian of her day, rubbed out her face from the temple. Typical.

Not that the pharaohs were an overtly modest lot. Each one seemed set on producing an even greater tribute to himself than the last, hence the huge numbers of temples, pyramids and, of course, the Sphinx, the lion with a human head in Egypt.

Ramesses II seemed keen on leaving a little something to posterity, given that he commissioned not one, but two 69ft statues of himself.

"Building on an enormous scale never daunted the pharaohs," said one expert, and he could have said that again as we were treated to views of one vast temple complex after another. It got more and more like The Mummy as it went on.

Ramesses II's tomb is constructed so that light reaches the innermost sanctum just twice a year. Come on, how Hollywood is that?

Just Jane

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY AND EVERY DAY

Best pal bitches about my man

IT'S one thing for me to slag off my husband.

But I really object to the fact that my best friend has started doing it, too.

She refers to him as "that useless lump" and is constantly criticising the things that he does and the way he treats me.

I'm beginning to wish that I had never confided in her about his drinking and womanising.

Last week, we were out with the girls on a Christmas booze-up and she spent the night telling stories about my man.

At one point, she even did an impression of him falling down our stairs.

Everyone was in hysterics but I was really embarrassed.

Afterwards I told her I wished she hadn't done that but she just pooh-poohed me and repeated that he was an ahole.

The thing is, my husband is a bit of prat but I've decided to stick with him and I don't need her making things any worse.

JANE SAYS: The problem with slagging anyone off is that you open the floodgates for everyone else to join in.

So it's never a good idea to criticise our partners, our children or our extended families in public. It's never very nice hearing the criticisms back again.

The problem with your friend is that she's become over-familiar. She thinks she can say anything she likes about your husband, because you do.

Some mates are great to talk to but this one is being insensitive and disloyal.

From today, start being more selective about what you reveal. If there are problems in your marriage, then talk to your husband and start to get them sorted.

He needs to speak to his GP or Alcoholics Anonymous (0845 769 7555) about his drinking and you both need to visit Relate (0845 456 1310) regarding his infidelities.

HAPPY WITHOUT SEX

I'M 27 and I've never had sex. I've never had a French kiss or held another person's hand.

I've never fancied another individual, male or female, or felt the slightest inclination to get involved in a relationship.

I have plenty of friends but back off when someone starts fancying me.

I'm perfectly happy living on my own without experiencing any sexual desire whatsoever. But the thing is, how do I explain this to my family this Christmas?

Once again they will demand to know why I'm still single and why I'm not producing grandchildren.

In only a few days' time, I'm travelling up to my parents' house to face at least 25 puzzled relatives – and I'm dreading it.

JANE SAYS: Quite a bit has been written recently about people who are

"asexual", men and women who have no desire to have sex with anyone.

They have no sex drive and live quite normal lives but without any physical contact. It is estimated half a million Britons fall into this category.

You clearly feel comfortable with yourself but resent outside intrusion.

Before you visit your folks, you might find it useful to check out a website www.asexuality.org which is devoted to this subject. There is a forum where people like yourself discuss their feelings and coping strategies.

If you don't feel up to a questions from your family, have a quiet word with your mother or father in advance.

Reveal as much as you are comfortable with but do ask them to respect your choice of lifestyle and stop nagging you.

Xmas mystery of absent hubby

MY partner has casually announced he won't be home for Christmas – again.

He claims he's got to take a package to New York which must be hand delivered on Christmas morning.

He won't be back until New Year's Day and he says if he refuses his boss will sack him, we'll lose the house and end up on the streets.

I just don't believe him. It seems that every time it's holiday season, he has to be somewhere else. Last Easter, it was Australia on Good Friday and in the summer he was forced to spend two weeks in Cuba "on a job". The rest of the year he's always nipping off at odd times, too.

The weirdest thing is, I can never manage to contact him on these special missions.

Weird

He never knows which hotel he'll be staying in and his mobile phone is rarely switched on.

I've asked him over and over again if there is another woman in his life but he swears not. He insists he's only working for us and doesn't like the separations any more than I do. I just find the whole thing so weird.

My best friend is convinced he's got another family somewhere but I've never found a rogue receipt.

I've never discovered knickers in his suitcase and we're still having as much sex as ever.

What do you think is going on?

JANE SAYS: Is there no way that you can get hold of his mobile phone bill? I'm sure it would make very interesting reading.

Failing that, make friends with his boss and pick his brains. I can't say whether your husband is leading a double life but his behaviour does seem odd.

If he does have another woman – and possibly a family as well – then he must be under big pressure to spend Christmas, Easter and summer holidays with them.

Juggling a double-life may seem far-fetched but your partner wouldn't be the first man to try it.

Sadly, I get many letters from women who have discovered their man has a whole other life in a different part of the country.

Recruit your Miss Marple of a mate and see what you can find out together.

Baby can't be mine

MY girlfriend has announced she's pregnant and says the baby is mine.

But I just don't know how it can be. For starters, I've been working away from home for the most of the past three months and have barely seen her.

The only time I remember us making love was back in November – and I wore a condom. She's says it must have broken because she's pregnant and I'm definitely the dad.

If I'm honest, I was thinking about breaking up with her because I've heard rumours about her going around with other blokes.

But she's told me that we must get married in January and no arguments. I've got a horrible feeling that I'm being stitched up.

JANE SAYS: I don't think that you should make any hasty decisions. If feel you're being pushed into a corner, then stand up for yourself.

If you've been out of the country, ask around and find out who she's been hanging out with. If she has been sleeping with other guys, confront her.

There's no way of knowing if the baby is yours until it is born. Then you'll have to "do a Blunkett" and have a DNA test.

Talk to your parents and ask for their support in making the best decision. Also call Careline (020 8514 1177) if you need support.

Spot Test

It's summer, and here comes the sun. But if you remember way back when, before you got to enjoy the weather, you had to undergo the torment and torture of tests. Staring into space, blank sheets of paper and the tick-tock of the clock. Sends shivers down my spine even now! One of the listed words has failed and can't be found in the grid. Which one?

FROM RANTS TO JOKES, IT'S THE BIT YOU WRITE

joke bloke

Text DSJOKE (space) name and joke to 61616

A DISTRAUGHT crab comes home from the office in tears and says to his missus: "I've just been sacked."

"Oh dear. Why?" asks his concerned wife.

He replies: "Well, there was this claws in my contract..."

J. McNAUGHTON,

Coleraine, Londonderry.

PATIENT: Doctor, I think I've caught a computer virus.

DOCTOR: I've told you before about eating chips.

ALICK RICHARDSON,

Falkirk, Strathclyde.

A TEACHER tries to trick her class by asking them what Jesus's father was called.

But she is surprised when little Jonny pipes up confidently: "It's Verge, everyone knows that. And his mother is Mary - Verge and Mary."

MAGGIE MORTON,

Slough, Berks.

DID you hear about the dumb blonde who stayed up all night to see where the sun went? In the morning it dawned on her.

PETER CROMPTON,

Stevenage, Herts.

MAN: I had this awful nightmare last night in which two skeletons were getting frisky with each other and ended up making love.

PAL: That sounds awful.

MAN: Yeah, it was. And the worse thing is it was so noisy, it woke me up!

G. MARTIN,

Norwich.

£10 LETTER
IT'S crazy that Mathew Ridley, who is 6ft 7ins and weighs 18 stone, has quit school because of bullying.

The only way to stop bullies is to make the practice a criminal offence and for those responsible to be punished by the courts.

P SHARKEY, Liverpool.

DOES anyone else think that Davina McCall's male alter-ego Dave Ian McCall looked spookily like Bryan Adams?

GLYN JONES, Wigan, Lancashire.

I SEE BBC staff were furious with their bosses' joke guide to Manchester. So was I. Workers were annoyed by the insensitivity of it after 2,000 of them were told they faced being moved from London.

I sympathise, but what really annoyed me was the piss-take of Manchester as a place where everyone's a Bernard Manning fan who says "chuck" after every sentence. Maybe it's no surprise the Beeb is going to the wall, with such outdated jibes.

D GORDON, Manchester.

I THINK they should make shopping at the peak of Christmas time one of the tasks on I'm A Celebrity... After the bumping and bruising, surly staff and utter confusion, I'd take my chances with the bugs and snakes any day.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You could receive more than you expected or hoped for this Christmas. CELEBRATING TODAY: DJ Sara Cox, right, 30; rock singer Amy Lee, 23; horse racing legend John Francome, 52.

Aries (Mar 21 - Apr 20)

NO ONE can say that you are slow-witted. Despite that, you may be frozen to the spot. There is no doubt that news or developments that occur as this week begins could lead to restlessness and nervous tension. To see why you may be impervious to what is happening elsewhere, call...

To receive daily texts send DSARI to 63333 0905 072 0099 (01) ***

Taurus (Apr 21 - May 21)

A STUNNING link between the Sun and Pluto suggests that things are turning in your favour. This doesn't mean you will get what you asked for, though others may be willing to compromise. To see why you are more valued than you think, call...

To receive daily texts send DSTAU to 63333 0905 072 0099 (02) ***

Gemini (May 22 - June 22)

THERE could be a few arguments and you may find yourself stunned into silence by what is said. Hopefully, you will still make your point today, just do it coherently. Either way, you may not win this round - but no one does. To see why you are obliged to look and listen, call...

To receive daily texts send DSGEM to 63333 0905 072 0099 (03) ***

Cancer (June 23 - July 23)

IT is essential that you make the right move at work - and there may not be room for error. The Sun together with Pluto signifies that you are bound to be working fast just to keep up your schedule. To see why this should be a time of remarkable changes, call...

To receive daily texts send DSCAN to 63333 0905 072 0099 (04) ***

Leo (July 24 - Aug 23)

THIS is the perfect time to tackle an emotional issue - though you know certain people only too well. Chances are that loved ones may not be quite so understanding. In fact, how you respond could attract or alienate somebody. For an update on your personal life, call...

To receive daily texts send DSLEO to 63333 0905 072 0099 (05) ***

Virgo (Aug 24 - Sep 23)

WORK or no work, you may have to devote more time to domestic concerns. Of course, you may decide to opt out of an arrangement even if you have always attended Christmas with the family. To see why the further you go, the less homesick you feel, call...

To receive daily texts send DSVIR to 63333 0905 072 0099 (06) ***

Libra (Sep 24 - Oct 23)

BECAUSE the Sun is close to the mysterious planet Pluto, your plans may well explode in a bizarre fashion. There is no doubt that you will start this week with real gusto - even if you receive a message which you find depressing. To see why you should be enjoying your freedom, call...

To receive daily texts send DSLIB to 63333 0905 072 0099 (07) ***

Scorpio (Oct 24 - Nov 22)

NOT only is it business as usual, but you may get more than you wanted. This is just as well, because you have been lagging behind in the pay stakes. In some ways, you are about to find out how valuable you are. If you want to find out what others are made of, call...

To receive daily texts send DSSCO to 63333 0905 072 0099 (08) ***

Sagittarius (Nov 23 - Dec 21)

DUE to a potent link between the Sun and Pluto in Sagittarius, you may decide to do what you have been longing to do all along. After which, you might never be able to look certain people in the face again. To see why you seem to love creating dramas, take a moment to call...

To receive daily texts send DSSAG to 63333 0905 072 0099 (09) ***

Capricorn (Dec 22 - Jan 20)

A NEW situation seems to have developed, and you may want to ignore it. Unfortunately, others are not ready to do so. Apart from that, a link between the Sun and Pluto will coincide with a further intrusion of privacy. To find out how to handle a variety of situations, call...

To receive daily texts send DSCAP to 63333 0905 072 0099 (10) ***

Aquarius (Jan 21 - Feb 19)

YOU can't say life is dull at the moment. In fact, the recent new moon suggests that certain people can be adorable, and they haven't been this funny in ages. More likely, you never expected this sort of scenario. To see why you must choose your friends carefully, call...

To receive daily texts send DSAQU to 63333 0905 072 0099 (11) ***

Pisces (Feb 20 - Mar 20)

YOU may not measure up to everyone's expectations. Besides that, the Sun is close to the mighty planet Pluto, and this could be a nerve-wracking start to the week, or when you might be sweating over a decision. To see why you may achieve a crucial goal, call...

GOTCHA:
Andrew Flintoff is bowled by Albie Morkel

FREDDIE: NO NEED TO PANIC

ENGLAND are facing a batting crisis just four days before the first Test against South Africa.

Skipper Michael Vaughan scored an unbeaten 82 in their final warm-up match against the South African A team here yesterday but the rest of the England top order flopped.

England will resume in today's final day leading by just 98 on 154-7 after Vaughan rode his luck to guide his side clear of the disaster which beckoned at 3-3. But Lancashire all-rounder Andrew Flintoff reports there is little concern in the dressing-room and insisted there is more than enough practice time to get things right before the start of the five-Test series.

"Speaking for myself, it would have been nice to get a few more runs and spend more time out in the middle before Friday but since I've got here, I've worked hard," said Flintoff, who was out for 21 yesterday. "I've spent a lot of time in the nets and I've lost count of the number of throw-downs that I and Robert Key have thrown at each other. We've netted hard as well and will probably have a couple more nets before Friday."

Claimed

"It would have been nice to spend more time in the middle but the important thing is getting myself right for Friday."

Flintoff, who claimed three wickets as South Africa A lost their last five wickets for 20 runs, did admit England's performance as a whole during this match has not been up to the standards they hoped for at the start of a tour.

"It's not really gone to plan but I thought we did well to come back today," he said.

Mark Butcher heads the list of England players with question marks over their form as they approach Friday's opening Test in Port Elizabeth, Surrey.

Butcher has had three innings on the tour, faced only 29 balls and scored nine runs.

No wonder he volunteered for an extra net session immediately after suffering a dubious leg-before decision as England slumped into trouble yesterday.

Marcus Trescothick and Andrew Strauss also fell cheaply as England lost three wickets inside the first four overs of their reply.

Vaughan shared a useful 45-run stand with Geraint Jones after being dropped at short leg on 15, but Graham Thorpe's lack of runs is also a worry for England after he was out for 11.
